Principal's Message

It gives me great pleasure to have the opportunity of writing a welcome message for the first edition of the Harry Ainlay Yearbook. This Centennial Year, Canada's one-hundredth birthday, should prove a memorable one for all Canadians. For Harry Ainlayites it is also memorable as marking the completion of the first year in a wonderful new school.

One of the unique experiences associated with the Official Opening on November 25 was the presence of Harry Dean Ainlay and Mrs. Ainlay. Mr. Ainlay's address will long be remembered for its warmth, its sincerity, and its humor. This school is fortunate to have as its patron a man with such a splendid record of public service.

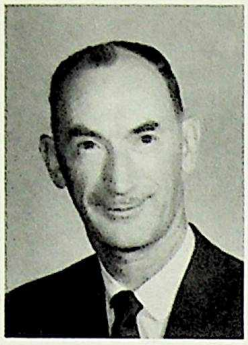

Mr. Ainlay in speaking to the assembled students at the school the following week reminded them that they have a responsibility for setting the tone of the school and for establishing worthwhile standards for future generations of Ainlayites to live up to. Those who heard the stirring address seemed very willing to accept the challenges placed before them. They were also grateful for Mr. Ainlay's announcement of a future scholarship to be awarded to some of our outstanding students.

The years ahead will make greater and greater demands upon Canadian brain-power. Achieving one's goals means more than merely staying in school. It involves having an interest and a determination to get an education in spite of the detractions of cars, television, part-time jobs or the desire to achieve independence. Together with this resolve we hope every Harry Ainlay student develops high standards of decency, goodwill, co-operation, and honest effort.

Our students who will be graduating this year have demonstrated that they have ability and industry. However, the demands of the modern world are becoming greater. Graduates, by the very nature of our society, will have to continue to study and to learn after they leave school. Adult education will soon become a way of life for Canadians. We trust that what you have gained during one short year at Harry Ainlay has reinforced your desire for learning, and strengthened your eagerness to enter the new world lying before you. The staff and students at Harry Ainlay extend our very best wishes to you as you march forward into the future with pride and with confidence.

Finally, a sincere word of appreciation to the editors, staff and sponsors of the Yearbook. You have set a fine standard for future staffs to follow, and in doing so have achieved an excellent publication.

SEMESTER SCHOOL

Dr. J. Dubeta

TWO SCHOOLS WITHIN ONE

During the first year, Harry Ainlay Composite High School has housed two schools under its roof, the second one being the experimental Semester School, answering a long-felt need and catering to the public school system's Grade XII students who seek their High School Diploma, become admissible to technical school, college or university without sacrificing the usual expenditure of time required in the traditional system.

Despite the limitations such as unsuitable location, class restrictions, attendance eligibility, staff and job conflicts, the school, thanks to a hard-working, capable, and conscientious staff, was highly successful in discharging its principal responsibilities.

The first semester's retention ratio was high, the final average class size of 30 having declined by fewer than 1.5 students. The percentage of attendance bordered 90%. The pass record was equally good. One student improved his former mark by as many as 46 points, the school's B+ and C+ pass record was 85% and 96% respectively, with the non-repeaters achieving relative passes of 75% and 91% in the aforementioned categories. Only 12 out of 237 "papers" failed to register an improvement, 90 "papers" improved by two letter gradings, while three "papers" hurdled as many as three letter gradings. It is less likely, however, that the second semester results will be as good because, on the average, the students are carrying much heavier academic loads which a lighter enrollment permitted, and the likelihood of stiffer competition during the June examinations.

The school offers an excellent opportunity to those seeking academic rehabilitation without undue sacrifice of time. Freed of its restrictions and limitations, its potential is virtually unlimited.

Sincere appreciation is extended to the School Board for initiating the new service, to the Harry Ainlay principal and staff for their excellent cooperation, to the Semester staff who ensured the experiment's success, and to those students who exerted their best efforts and justified the confidence placed in them. The school's new location will be announced. Good luck and au revoir!
